A Love Affair with Books

To my recollection, the world of books was opened up to me by mam’s two youngest sisters. My aunts read big tomes voraciously. Both aunts were really more of my big sisters, and they were so cool. They stoked in me that same appetite for books. I remember being punished in primary school for reading fiction in class. I considered the punishment a small price to pay for my exciting adventures.

I borrowed books from libraries, from my aunts, from friends... and in the rare occasions that I received gifts in the form of cash, I bought my own. And I read them all. Over the years, this passion still burns. When a good book ends, I let it linger in my arms as I imagine what-if scenarios should the story carry on. I buy more books than I can read. And it seems the baton my aunts passed on to me has found a firm grip in my two children’s hands.

Well... I’ve a confession to make. I really don’t know if my children picked up the reading habit voluntarily, or out of the allure of making some bucks. You see, I gave a condition for pocket money: it had to be earned. I made the rate for rewarding book reading more attractive than the rate for other chores. But there had to be evidence that a book was read and understood, so they submitted written summaries. Even then, I had to be convinced before I could disburse funds, so we engaged in book debates. With time, I started getting into debt with them. Whichever, it’s a delight for me to see what book lovers they’ve turned out be, even in their teens. I stopped paying long ago.

Our theme for the 2012 Catalogue is “Come Alive with Books.” It’s our sincere hope that the list featured here will stir our readers up in their quest to know, to learn, to experience, and to become... that these books will cause the true you to come alive.

Books are truly cool and we desire to see all people engage in reading.

Enjoy.

Grades matter A+ lot!

But you can be an A+ student in more ways than one:

- Give wings to your dreams
- Grow in self-esteem
- Get healed of past hurts and failures
- Choose to value and pursue all-rounded success
- Beat mediocrity and rise above average thinking
Although Africa is a major source of some of the world’s most utilised minerals and precious metals, it is the least developed and its vast population lives in utter hopelessness. The continent sags under colossal debt due to inept, reckless and corrupt political leadership. This is enigmatic. In Africa’s Enigma and Leadership Solutions, the author calls for a new paradigm: prophetic leadership that is transformational. He debunks myths about leadership and postulates that to overcome the continent’s malignant problems, the culture of leadership that is problem-solving must take root.

Africa’s Enigma and Leadership Solutions
Tokunboh Adeyemo

Africa’s story is heartrending. It is the sad account of the long history of a people who have suffered from slavery and colonialism, and continue to suffer wars, genocide, poor governance, starvation, poverty, HIV and AIDS, coups and counter-coups, child trafficking—to mention only a few. This gloomy picture begs the question: “Is Africa cursed?” In this book, Simon Walker explores the journey by which a leader gains moral authority. He exposes the exhausting emotional burden of sustaining a front and a back stage, which derails many leaders. He explains how the formation of leadership egos in childhood relates to “defendedness” and highlights the negative impact defended leaders have on their followers. Finally, Walker shows the way towards becoming truly “undefended” and free to lead.

Leading Out of Who You Are
Simon P. Walker

What makes a leader truly great? Learn from the leaders who have changed history, leaders such as Gandhi, Luther King and Churchill. Simon Walker presents the sources of their influence and authority in lessons that promise to change not only your own life but also the lives of those you lead. This book includes:
- Study questions
- Helpful diagrams and illustrations
- Links to web resources
- Access to an online community of practice

Be A People Person
Effective Leadership Through Effective Relationships
John C. Maxwell

Being a leader means working with people, and that’s not always easy! Interpersonal relationships can make or break a leader—whether in the office, the church or elsewhere. That’s why it’s so important to be a ‘people person’ and develop your own skills in tapping that most precious of all resources—people. This book can help you develop the qualities of an effective leader, understand and help people with difficult personalities, inspire others to excellence and success, and more!

So Many Leaders ... So Little Leadership
Beyond the Power of Position Lies the Price of Leadership
John W. Stanko

True leadership is not about getting power and position. It’s about becoming a servant. In real life, leading others is much more complex—it’s part preparation, part perspiration and part inspiration. John Stanko outlines how to develop a leadership philosophy that includes all three.

Management: A Biblical Approach
Myron Rush

What is your mode of management? Most Christian leaders will answer one or two ways: gleaned from college or work and gleaned from theological training and ministry. The problem is, what the first can lack in biblical principle, the second will often lack in biblical practicality. In this updated classic, Myron Rush gives excellent counsel—biblically principled and biblically practical—to those who have been called of God to lead and manage others.

Roy Hession

Roy Hession (1920-1992) was one of the most effective Christian evangelists in post-World War II Britain, especially among young people. At Aldenham School where he was educated, he was introduced to religion, which led him to expect "anything but boredom" from God. He accepted Jesus in 1926 and later committed himself to full-time preaching. He greatly appreciated Christian literature and he published ten books, most of which are classics, especially The Calvary Road, We Would See Jesus and Forgotten Factors.

My Neighbour’s Faith
John Azumah

African Muslims and Christians share kinship ties, languages and citizenship and have often lived together in peace. Yet why have clashes between Christians and Muslims become common in places like Sudan, Nigeria and Ivory Coast? John Azumah sets out to answer this question and many others in this introduction to Islam. Some of the topics covered by this Christian theologian include: Muslim history and theology, Major differences between Christianity and Islam; How these differences lead to conflict; and Contentious issues such as Shari’ah Law.

The War Within
A. C. Chukwuocha

The more intense our desire to walk in step with Christ, the more we face inner conflicts. This insightful book explores what lies behind these conflicts, and addresses questions such as:

• Why do we have these conflicts?
• Do they threaten our salvation?
• What about the sins we can’t shake off?

Combining profound intellectual insights with practical illustrations, this book shows how to grow in practical holiness by gaining control of the factors that work against our walk with God.

Preachers of a Different Gospel
Femi B. Adeleye

“Name it and claim it!” “Just have faith!” “Give and you will get!” Catchphrases like this have convinced many Christians that trusting in God will bring health and wealth. But the gospel does not promise prosperity without pain or salvation without sanctification. Femi Adeleye draws on his wide-ranging experience as he examines the appeal and peril of this new gospel of prosperity that has made deep inroads in Africa, as well as in the West.

Triplet Heritage
Jean-Claude Loba-Mkole

Intercultural mediation is a development of inculturation theology, but while the latter focuses on the incarnation of the Gospel in a culture and the evangelization of that culture, intercultural mediation embarks on consolidating a constructive dialogue between an original biblical culture, church tradition and contemporary audiences. This book shows the relevance of intercultural mediation to Scripture translation and biblical exegesis. It contends that both translation and exegesis proceed through a triple set of cultures.
